

Corpus Linguistics 2013: List of Poster Presentations (version of 2013-07-05)

Posters will be on display throughout CL2013 in the Conference Centre.

The main poster session is Thursday 25th July, 3.30 to 5.30 p.m.

Siân Alsop

New methods of annotation: The 'humour' element of Engineering lectures

Nilanjana Banerji, Vineeta Gupta, Adam Kilgarriff, David Tugwell

Oxford Children's Corpus: a corpus of children's writing, reading, and education

Sabine Bartsch

LinguisticsWeb.org: a web for learning and teaching corpus linguistic tools and methods

Luisa Bozzo

TILCE – the Turin Italian Learner Corpus of English

Howard Hao-Jan Chen

Uncovering Second Language Learners' Miscollocations using SketchEngine

Samuel Danso, Eric Atwell, Owen Johnson

A Verbal Autopsy corpus annotated with cause of death

Lisa Da Silva

Representation of female body shape and size in newspaper discourse: A corpus-based study

Natalya Dubois Marysheva

Collocational priming of idiomatic expressions: norms and exploitations

Ann-Marie Eklund, Dimitrios Kokkinakis

Query logs as a corpus

Mel Evans, Caroline Tagg

Reading multimodality: a report of an investigation into the multimodality of data representation in a corpus of medical articles

Jennifer Fest

The difference between English and English: examining varieties on the basis of register

Stephanie Furness-Barr

A comparison of metaphors of love across three music genres, based on the lyrics of the top charting albums of 2011 in the UK

Miguel Fuster

A joint perspective to the analysis of recurrent phraseology: lexical bundles and phrase frames in the language of hotel websites

Daniel Gallego-Hernández, Francisco José García-Rico, Ramesh Krishnamurthy, Paola Masseur, Miguel Tolosa-Igualada

Towards a multilingual specialised corpus for business translators

Eva Hajičová, Barbora Hladká, Jan Václ
Tracing salience in the Prague Dependency Treebank

Carlos Herrero-Zorita
An initial approach on medical term formation in Japanese through the usage of corpora

Henrik Kaatari
Classifying fictional texts in the BNC using bibliographical information

Yuichiro Kobayashi, Toshiyuki Kanamaru
Identification of linguistic features for predicting L2 proficiency levels: Using Coh-Metrix and machine learning

Dominika Kovářiková
Corpus-driven terminology

Hui-Chuan Lu, An Chung Cheng
Learner corpus of L3 acquisition

Jiří Mácha, Jiří Václavík
PMSE: text categorization – a case study

Ursula Maden-Weinberger
CLEG and “die Deutschen”

Leida Maria Monaco, Luis Puente Castelo
Conditionals in eighteenth-century philosophy texts: A corpus based study

Renata Novotná
The Czech preposition v/ve and its English equivalents

Emmanuelle Pensec
Business ethics documents of French companies from an intercultural point of view: Example of a contrastive study of the French and American versions of Lafarge’s Principles of Action

Piotr Pęzik
Corpus mining tools in the PLEC project

Andrew Salway, Knut Hofland, Samia Touileb
Applying corpus techniques to climate change blogs

Wenli Tsou, Hui-Chuan Lu, Sheng-Yun Hung
Contrastive analysis of moves and steps taken in writing medical notes

Zigrīda Vincēla
Generic pronouns in Latvian student-composed essays in English: A comparison of the BNC (British National Corpus) and BCML (Balanced Corpus of Modern Latvian)

Tomoko Watanabe
A critical exploration of the use of English general extenders in a corpus of Japanese learner speech at different levels of speaking proficiency